Space Girls

It was the year 3000, and in the past week, young girls Marguerite and Ashley had been training with the Canadian space program in hopes of being chosen to go to planet Sixzurn.

They finally got the call that they were both accepted.

Later that year, they launched into space. Upon arrival to Sixzurn, the girls heard a strange noise coming from the equipment room, but when they checked, there was nothing there.

When Marguerite was conducting tests in the space ship, she heard a noise once again coming from the equipment room.

She went to look, but found nothing. Marguerite assumed that it was a rat and set up traps.

Later that week, Ashley and Marguerite heard a big crash.

They went to go investigate and finally found a boy hiding in a box. The boy explained that he didn't get accepted in the space program and wanted to go to Sixzurn, so he hid in the equipment room.

When the girls got back to Earth, they turned in the boy. The Canadian space program banned him from space missions, and Marguerite and Ashley continued travelling through space without anymore trouble.
