All a Dream?

I knew something was wrong as I awoke. Without even realizing, I shot out of bed and started running down the dark corridors of my house. Only when I passed by a mirror did I realize what had happened.

Through the mirror's reflexion I saw flames and smoke everywhere. My blonde hair had turned gray with ashes. As my eyes adjusted, I realized that I wasn't in my own house anymore! Panic settled in as I ran again, but there was no escape, no where to go. I was trapped.

My feet were splintered and burned and it was becoming hard to breathe. I then saw a shadow watching me from around the corner. It had glowing red eyes, burning like the fire. Then it was gone... Did that thing bring me to this creepy house? Why did it want me?

The floorboard behind me creaked underneath a footfall. I spun around and there was a hand around my neck, squeezing hard. I grabbed the creature's neck and dug my nails into it. The grip loosened and I was able to get away.

I started running again. I arrived in a room that was almost completely engulfed in flames. As I turned to run out, I saw the creature at the end of the hall. The door to the hallway slammed. It was locked and the flames were closing in around me.

My eyes burst open and I was out of breath. I was back in my bed! It was all a dream! I winced in pain and noticed my neck felt bruised and sore and there were burns on my arms...
